

Enrico Neri is 35 from Vicenza (close to Venice, Italy). After a brilliant Master of Science in Industrial Engineering (110 cum laude) and an Erasmus in Sweden, started his professional life in New York, where started working on internet and software.

After some experience as consultant in Accenture, CTO of internet startup, General Manager of telco company, started in 2004 his own company called Vegan Solutions (Enrico is vegetarian).

Main core of Vegan, where Enrico is CEO and owner, is, since 2006. Eldy, a platform for the elderly that allow elderly to use email, chat, browse, etc with a clear interface. Eldy is free of charge and free from commercials, and has over 150.000 users in Italy, still growing thank the Local Government support (Regione Lombardia, Regione Friuli, etc) of the project.

Enrico is working hard to bring Eldy to Europe, and to the US, where Vegan has just opened a branch in New York.

Enrico is speaker at conferences to disseminate Eldy around, and is proud of Eldy, that he defines a "very clean, moral and enthusiastic project".
